The BRSR staff works closely with investigators in developing the study protocol, writing the statistical sections of the grant proposal, preparing the required statistical analyses, and critically reviewing manuscripts. Additionally, the BRSR coordinates with the NICHD Statistical/Clinical Coordinating Center (SCCC) to evaluate and approve statistical plans and provide ongoing assistance in study design, analyses, and interpretation of results for a range of studies. The BRSR staff is also available to provide assistance with non-statistical issues, including complex programming, data collection, and data entry. A full description of the research programs and goals for the Cancer and Inflammation Research Center at BCM is included in the annual report. Our past and current research interests focus on translational, clinical, and basic science research related to cancer and inflammation. BCM offers strong programs in molecular, cell 82157476af
